MEMORIAL DAY ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETED

Arrangements were complete today for observance here on Wednesday of Memorial Day—with the weather man injecting the only note of uncertainty.

Today's forecasts predict showers and cooler weather for Memorial Day and the local committee announced that in event of rain in the afternoon the parade and strewing of the flowers will be omitted but the Memorial Day exercises will be conducted in the court house.

The memorial address will be delivered by Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio. He and Mrs. Taft will arrive in Gettysburg about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning with Congressman and Mrs. Chester H. Gross and will be taken over the battlefield with Harry E. Koch, a battlefield guide and chairman of the Sons of Veterans' Memorial Day committee, as their official guide. A luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg for the official party and members of the local committee will follow the battlefield trip.

Parade Moves at 2 p. m.

The parade will move from Springs avenue at 2 o'clock under the directions of Chief Marshal LeRoy H. Winebrenner. School children will form on High street and will march to center square to take their place at the head of the column moving toward the National cemetery. The school children will be led by the Gettysburg high school band.

Mr. Winebrenner announced today that prisoner of war guards from the Pine Grove and the Gettysburg PW camps, many of them wounded vets of overseas service, will ride in the parade in Third Service Command trucks and will precede the members of the State Guard who will be riding in vehicles marked with the blue keystone of the Guard.

Members of the army, navy or marines are invited to march in Wednesday's parade here. The active service units, including women's branches of the three services, will be placed ahead of the State Guard in the column.

Parking will be banned along Baltimore street and the west half of center square until after the parade has passed.

Exercises at the rostrum will start about 2:45 p. m.

BOND SALES IN COUNTY NEARING HALF-WAY MARK

Adams county is nearing the half-way mark in its sales of E bonds to individuals in the "Mighty Seventh" war loan campaign.

Sales reported up to 10 o'clock this morning to the office of the county chairman of the war finance committee totaled $307,662.75, leaving an unsold balance of $392,337.25.

Several agencies did not report today and it is believed that the grand total is in excess of $325,000. Only those sales actually made and reported are announced.

State Sales

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—G. Ruhlman, chairman of the State War Finance committee, today said E bond sales continued to forge ahead slowly with the state now having reached $105,600,000 or 36.5 per cent of its $288,000,000 goal. Individual sales totaled $201,000,000 or 39.7 per cent of the $506,000,000 quota.

Tribute To Veterans

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Americans were asked today to buy an extra war bond on Memorial day—tomorrow—not only to remember the dead but to care for the wounded.

Ted R. Gamble, National war finance director, said in a statement that $45,000,000 will be spent by the Army during the 7th War Loan drive in treating and reconditioning its 100,000 sick and wounded men. "No one," he said, "can quarrel over the cost."

He pointed out that to raise $45,000,000 the treasury must sell 2,400,000 bonds of $25 face value, costing $18.75 each.

Sales in the bond drive to date are $2,529,000,000, including $1,543,000,000 in series E bonds. The goal is $14,000,000,000. The drive began May 14 and ends June 30.

LOCAL OFFICER IS LIBERATED FROM GERMANS

Captain John C. Hollinger, former assistant professor of Military Science and Tactics at Gettysburg college, who was captured by the Germans last December 16 has been liberated.

Mrs. Hollinger, who has been residing with her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Hollinger, Lansdowne, since she received word that her husband was "missing," was informed of his liberation late Sunday evening by the Lansdowne Red Cross. The information was relayed to Mrs. Hollinger by telephone. This is the only information she has received about her husband since she received a letter from him written from a prisoner of war camp at Muhlburg, Germany, written January 2.

Captain Hollinger was attached to the 160th Division. He was at St. Vith last December 14 and at that time wrote his wife. That letter was postmarked 9 a. m. December 16, two days after it had been written.

On December 16 the Germans staged their surprising breakthrough which developed into the Belgium bulge. Hollinger's outfit, surrounded by the Germans, held out for three days before it was captured.

The local officer lost all his effects and was marched across the Rhine with only the clothes on his back. His personal effects had been taken from him by the Germans and in the first two weeks after his capture he lost 35 pounds. Other members of his outfit wrote their families that the first warm food they received from the Germans was on January 2, some two weeks after their capture.

Captain Hollinger was held at Muhlburg for a while and then was moved to another camp, some of the American officers being taken to northeast Germany. Later they were moved to another camp after the Russians started their drive for Berlin.

URGES APTITUDE TESTS TO HELP LOCAL PUPILS

Dr. J. B. Zinn, professor of chemistry at Gettysburg college, spoke on "Education for Democracy from the Scientific Viewpoint" at the Rotary club meeting Monday night. Guests from the county school system were present.

Beginning by saying that a silk purse can be made from a sow's ear, Dr. Zinn said that many promising young men and women were lost to the community because there was no way to finance their education. He also discussed a plan for the revision of the elementary school, secondary school and college curricula for the purpose of developing the latent ability of the students and preparing them for citizenship in a democracy.

"Democracy cannot survive without trained leadership," he said and suggested a detailed plan whereby the community would support the student.

SYNOD OFFICERS ARE REELECTED AS MEET OPENS

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd M. Keller, Baltimore pastor, was elected president of the Maryland Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America at the opening business session of the 126th annual meeting of the church body Monday evening in the Church of the Abiding Presence on the seminary campus.

These other officers of the synod, which includes 139 congregations of more than 61,000 members, were re-named for another year: Vice president, the Rev. J. Frank Fife, Baltimore; treasurer, Virgil M. Doub, Middletown, Md., and statistical secretary, the Rev. W. G. Minnick, Baltimore. Mr. Minnick was named to the office for his 33rd consecutive term.

In an address at a Synod Brotherhood fellowship dinner Monday evening at the seminary, Dr. Franklin C. Fry, new president of the United Lutheran Church in America, told the churchmen that Protestantism in America has devoted too much of its attention to the middle class and pointed to the exemplary action of Christ who picked his first followers from the extremes of the social ladder. The very rich and the destitute deserve more attention than they have gotten in the past, he said.

Church Head Reports

The ULCA head stressed the importance of evangelism in the program of the local church and talked of the role of the church in the social picture today.

In an address this afternoon before the Synod, Doctor Fry reported on the national situation of the church. Speaking of world church work, he said: "With the successful completion of the appeal for $2,500,000 in 1945 for Lutheran world activities, $1,200,000 will be used for specific spiritual relief of the Lutherans of Europe who comprise 85 per cent of the Protestant population of that continent."

Dr. G. Elson Ruff, new editor of The Lutheran, conferred with Lutheran writers from this area Monday afternoon and then addressed the Brotherhood on "What Laymen Should Read." He discussed the role of religious journals in the world press today.

This morning's Synod session was marked by a spirited discussion of a proposal to establish the Synod presidency as a full-time position. The outcome of the discussion was synodical action instructing a committee (Please Turn to Page 7)

SGT. REDDING IS RECOVERING

(Special to The Times)

The 131st General Hospital, England—Wounded for the second time when he stormed the beaches of Normandy on D-Day, Sergeant Gregory M. Redding, 21, of Steinwerth avenue, Gettysburg, Pa., is now recovering at this United States Army general hospital in England from a bullet wound of the right leg received near Remagen, Germany.

Sgt. Redding, who has been awarded the Oak Leaf cluster to the Purple Heart, was previously wounded by shrapnel during the fighting near St. Lo, France.

"The Germans were giving us the stiffest fighting since the early days of the invasion," said Sgt. Redding. "They were deeply entrenched in the mountain regions east of the Rhine and they were resisting fanatically."

Sgt. Redding, infantry machine gunner, said his unit had pushed on to take several of the mountain strongholds before he was wounded. "We were attacking one hill, which had three crests," he continued. "With the help of good artillery support we took that hill without sustaining too many casualties. We drew up on top of it to wait for reinforcements and it was then that a sniper shot me." A medic reached him soon after he was hit and bandaged his leg and he was evacuated by litter to an aid station.

First Lieutenant Robert Mallory of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, his ward surgeon, said, "He is making a rapid recovery and will return to duty soon."

Sgt. Redding is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Redding, Steinwehr avenue.

FREE ON BAIL

Arnold Stottmeyer of Littlestown, was released from jail on payment of $500 bail. He is charged with desertion and non-support by Louise Stottmeyer and was committed April 20. Hearings will be held August 24.

Yokohama Is Blasted; Light U. S. Ship Sunk; Advance In Indo-China

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, May 29 (AP)—Chinese forces pressing along the highway leading southwestward into Indo-China have reached the vicinity of Shulo, more than 60 miles from recaptured Yungning (Nanning) the high command announced tonight.

The advance widened the breach in the main highway in Japan's China-Indo-China corridor to approximately 120 miles.

The high command said fierce fighting was raging in the vicinity of Pingyang, highway hub 60 miles northeast of Yungning. Both sides were reported suffering heavy casualties in the Pingyang area.

Observers in Chungking speculated whether the Japanese if forced out of Pingyang would withdraw northeastward to the railroad junction city of Liuchow or eastward in the general direction of Canton and Hong Kong.

Balk Counterattack

In Hunan province Japanese counterattacking from Tantung, 20 miles northwest of their main base at Shaoyang (Paoching), were beaten back.

In Honan province, the high command said, Chinese forces registered gains against the Japanese bastion at Hsishiakow, 400 miles northeast of Chungking, capturing two heights. Chinese attacks were continuing south of Shansien, Lungai railroad town 50 miles east of the Honan-Shensi border.

Unconfirmed reports said today the Japanese were withdrawing from the former American air base at Liuchow in Kwangsi province as Chinese troops aimed a two-pronged attack at the railroad junction city.

Veteran Chinese troops, who captured the big inland port of Nanning (Yungning) Saturday in their most spectacular victory in months, pushed to the outskirts of Pingyang, 58 miles to the northeast and about 90 miles southwest of Liuchow.

Liuchow also was threatened from the west. Chinese forces advanced from captured Hwaiyuanchen, crossed a north-south stretch of the Yung river seven miles west of Ishan and drove on toward that Japanese strongpoint, 43 miles west of Liuchow.

Guam, May 29 (AP)—In the wake of suicide Japanese air attacks which sank one light United States fleet unit and damaged 12 others in Okinawan waters, American infantrymen sloshed down both sides of the muddy island today to begin closing a pincers around stubbornly defended fortress Shuri.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, announcing damage to the fleet, said at least 77 raiders were shot down as they attacked Sunday night and Monday. He gave no details beyond saying damage was "light to moderate."

The air raids were the second in less than a week, and have cost the Japanese more than 240 planes. Last Thursday they lost 166 planes, damaged 23 American fleet units and sank one.

Driving rains which for a week have turned the island's roads into ribbons of soupy mud, slackened off, permitting Tenth Army ground forces to resume their Naha bridgehead, swept through the entire western two-thirds of the island capital yesterday.

Two-Mile Gain

A Marine patrol moved onto Onoyama island in the center of the Naha estuary but was driven off by machinegun fire from the south shore where Okinawa's largest airfield is situated.

Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopping reported the Seventh Division's 184th Regiment under Col. Roy A. Green pressed nearly two miles south of Yonabaru on the eastern flank, penetrating Ogushuku and Shinzato to isolate Chinen peninsula.

Despite continued Japanese troop movement apparently southward from Shuri, the fortress garrison strongly resisted pressure from the 6th Marines and the 77th and 96th Infantry Divisions.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Del Valle's Sixth Marines twice gained the crest of Wana ridge, a half mile north, and both times were forced back by Japanese attacking with satchel charges thrown from long poles whirled slingshot-fashion over their heads.

By HAMILTON W. FARON

Guam, May 29 (AP)—Superfort crews returning today from their heaviest incendiary raid on Japan reported they had lighted giant fires in the industrial section of Yokohama in the first strike against Tokyo's port city.

More than 450 B-29s loosed 2,300 tons of bombs in their third strike in six days within a 30 mile radius of the Imperial palace.

Airmen reported smoke billowed for four miles above the city and predicted destruction would rank with that of previous highly effective fire raids against other major Japanese industrial cities. Even the enemy's High Command conceded "considerable damage" was inflicted.

Clouds of black smoke, such as come from burning oil, were reported pouring up from Yokohama's highly inflammable commercial core in the southern end of the city, fifth largest in Japan.

Fire Is Spreading

A strong wind appeared to be spreading the fires through automotive, aircraft, shipbuilding and rubber plants.

The great flights of Superforts flew through intense and accurate antiaircraft fire to strike their targets, which included most of the city. An enemy communique said some of the raiders swept on northward to hit Tokyo and the industrial town of Kawasaki which lies between the capital and the port city.

The Japanese communique claimed 30 planes were shot out of the attacking force, which it placed at "some 500" B-29s and "some 100" Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima. It asserted 40 others were damaged.

Light Interception

Superfort crews reported interception was light and attacking aircraft were readily driven off. The absence of enemy fighters was at least partly due to a 1,500 mile round trip flight yesterday by Mustangs from their Iwo Jima bases to make neutralizing raids on three air fields near Tokyo, including the Kasumigaura naval air station. Forty-two Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged in that sweep.

The 21st Bomber command reserved an official estimate of damage from today's mass raid until post-strike photographs have been studied. But returning airmen said fire bombs were dropped with concentrated precision in clear weather and left "block after block" in flames.

Superforts have unloaded 11,700 tons of fire-bombs in their last three strikes, involving 1,500 sorties, seeking to paralyze the heart of Japan's war industry.

There were 64 members from Arendtsville, 50 from Bendersville, 12 from York Springs, 6 from Biglerville, 12 from Littlestown, 21 from New Oxford and 110 from Gettysburg. Thirty new members from Cashtown were reported at the last meeting.

U.S. TO PRESS "PROFITEERS"

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The treasury has a plan to force war profiteers to cough up at least a billion dollars in unpaid taxes.

Here are the latest developments in the war on tax dodgers.

1. Secretary of the treasury Morgenthau is about to ask Congress for 10,000 new employees—5,000 field agents ("T-men") and 5,000 office personnel. He says the cost will be between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 in a year, depending on how fast they can be recruited, and that they will bring in at least $1,000,000,000 in extra revenue.

2. Morgenthau, saying "the more I go into this, the more shocking it gets," said two unnamed wholesale meat dealers in Washington and Baltimore made huge profits last year by selling at above ceiling prices, and then failed to report this income.

3. Joseph O'Connell, chief counsel of the treasury, clarified the department's position on voluntary disclosures. He said the policy has been to recommend criminal prosecution when a man comes in and makes a voluntary disclosure before the treasury has begun investigating him.

O'Connell said such a man would, of course, be subject to pay whatever back taxes he owed, plus penalties and interest. He added that it's a different story when a man comes in after an investigation begins.

FRANCE FACES LOSS IN EAST

By ROMNEY WHEELER

London, May 29 (AP)—The tiny middle eastern French mandates of Syria and Lebanon, backed by the Arab league, appeared today to be forcing a showdown which may cost France part of her empire.

Diplomatic observers in London, who are watching developments in the Levant with apprehension, expressed the view that France had only two alternatives—either she must stand by her demands and put down opposition by force if necessary or she must withdraw and accept inevitable loss of prestige as an imperial power.

Both in London and in Washington diplomats were seeking an amicable solution and striving to avoid violence which might further disturb the delicate balance in the Middle East.

Fighting already has broken out in Syria between French forces and natives protesting their presence. An Associated Press dispatch from Damascus said Syria's Acting Premier Jamil Mardam Bey had expressed fears that a "general clash" might be near as fighting spread to Homs, 120 miles north of the capital, after the French had moved reinforcements from there to quell an outbreak at Hama, 30 miles farther north.

The French were reported to have the main street of Homs under continual cross-fire yesterday, shooting at anybody venturing on the street, while French artillery shells had knocked out one wall of the Sarail (government building). Syrians ambushed and captured three French armored cars, killing six chieftains and wounding three others.

S. MAY TAKE MEDIATOR ROLE AMONG POWERS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(AP Diplomatic News Editor)
an Francisco, May 29 (AP)—A bid by Secretary of State Stettinius for closer relations with the Soviet Union today and the United States toward the role of mediator among the great powers.

Events abroad and blunt words made even more clear that the United Nations efforts to serve world peace will depend on the ability of the big powers to work together. This would be to be under self-imposed restraints, since the organization being urged by the United Nations Conference imposes few restraints upon the top powers.

Stettinius summed this up in a sense of the veto voting formula which each of the Big Five nations could prevent a world security council from using force against an aggressor. The question has been asked, he said, as to what happens one of the Big Five—Russia, the United States, China, Britain or France—embarks upon a course of aggression and refuses to recognize the machinery of the world organization?

British May Act
"In such an event," Stettinius intimated, "the answer is simple. Another World War has come, vote no vote, and the world organization has failed."

But he added that is a kind of "fly" question and the five great nations have come here with the United Nations to form an organization for peace—not to consider for war. He predicted success in this endeavor.

Stettinius spoke by radio last night to Americans at home and the armed forces abroad. Even as he talked, reports came of armed clashes between French troops and rabs in the former French mandate of Syria, now independent. London said troops of the British fifth army might have to restore order.

In Moscow and London, Harry Hopkins and Joseph E. Davies, as special envoys of President Truman, explored the possible accomplishments of an expected Big-Three meeting. The goal is a key to the Polish puzzle and settlement of the conflicts of big-power interest in eastern Europe.

House May Have "Hot Potato" Now

Washington, May 29 (AP)—A "hot-for-me" Senate attitude left House members alone today with $2,500 expense money—and wondering if they were not also holding a political hot potato.

They wondered how the folks back home would look on their tax-free allowance which a top-heavy Senate majority frowned on for its own members.

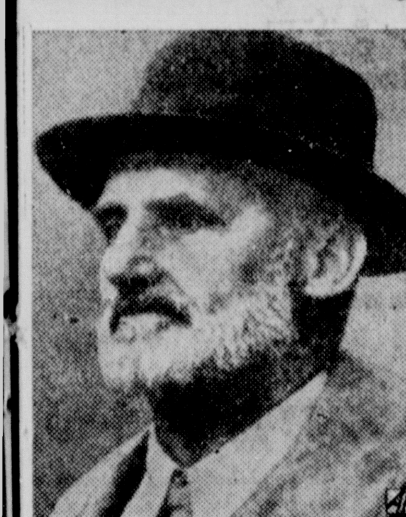

The senators left the representatives' expense money in the $51,000, 000 legislative appropriation bill, but the voting and the debate made clear they did so only because traditionally one chamber does not interfere with the other's requested appropriations.

Some Of Adams County's Younger Generation

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

(For four months, Helen Camp, of the Associated Press staff in New York, has been watching fighting men come home, by ship and plane—wounded men, men on furloughs, men who had just come out of prison camps. This is her reaction to that recurring but never old experience.)

By HELEN CAMP
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)
New York, May 29 (AP)—You always cry when you see the boys come home.

They're coming by the thousands now and they'll continue to come. But it doesn't matter how often you see it, it's never an old story. Because always it's new to them.

You stand at the rail of the welcome boat that meets the transports in lower New York bay and you look across the water at the railing packed with khaki-clad figures. Five and ten deep they stand. The ones in front squat down so the ones behind can see. The ones farthest back climb on each other's shoulders. All of them wave, shout, beckon—reach out as though to touch this, their first semblance of home.

Always Smiles
You stand in the grass along the sun-warmed air strips at Bradley and Mitchell fields and you can see planes come in, circle in a final delicious swoop and roll to a stop. You see the bomb bay doors drop open and the men pile out.

You walk through the hospital corridors at Halloran hospital, Camp Shanks, and Camp Kilmer and see the wounded, the released prisoners leaning out of their bunks—see the weary faces, the splints and the stumps and the bandages. But always the smiles.

No matter how they come, no matter where they come from, no matter what condition they're in, it's basically the same. Always it's the biggest thing that's ever happened to any of them—bigger than anything that ever will, ever can, happen to you.

Some of them pound each other on the back, shriek, kiss the ground, jump up and down.

"An American Girl!"
Others stand apart or lie in their bunks and don't say anything. Just look and look and look.

You walk among them, talk to them, smile with them. And you love them all.

One minute you're alone in the middle of a hospital ward or a ship's hold or along an airfield. The next minute the khaki walls press in on you. They reach out to touch you. They brush your cheek. They stroke your hair.

"It's a girl. An American girl!"
"She talks, too. Keep on talking. Say something."

Always there is a sense of humor—the most precious possession, the most impenetrable armor the GIs have. They've used it to cover up pain, disappointment, sorrow, loneliness. And now they use it to cover up happiness.

One Thought
"Hey, watch out. Are you sure this isn't a detail?"
"Is this fraternizing?"

And always there is a politeness, a sweetness. Someone in his excitement says, "Hell." Immediately two elbows are punching his ribs, a dozen pairs of eyes are glaring at him. And someone is saying sternly, "take it easy, bud."

Later on these men will think of jobs and plans and people and maybe of fighting Japs. But right now they're thousands of men with one

Myers Voted For Rejected Measure
Washington, May 29 (AP)—Senator Francis Myers, (D-Pa.), voted in favor of a proposed $2,500 annual expense allowance for senators yesterday. The Senate rejected the measure 43-9.

Myers also voted for an amendment to make senators' expenses while away from their home states deductible from income tax. This was defeated by the Senate 38-13.

Pennsylvania's other senator, Joseph P. Guffey, did not vote on either measure.

Destroyer Escort Torpedoed In Atlantic
The destroyer escort USS Barr, her stern twisted with wreckage after being torpedoed by a German sub in the Atlantic, May 29, 1944, lies in the harbor at Casablanca, French Morocco, where the ship underwent temporary repairs. In the same action the escort aircraft carrier USS Block Island was sunk by the enemy U-boat. This picture was released in Washington May 29, 1945, one year after the encounter.

Factories Return To Civilian Work
Pittsburgh, May 29 (AP)—One hundred small factories in western Pennsylvania which for many months have been making war materials are now back on civilian goods—such things as aluminum, awnings, rubber goods, plastic clothes hangers and ready mixed cement.

Also coming on the market soon from reconverted war plants are hot air furnaces, air conditioning units, wooden furniture, toys, glassware, auto accessories and cigarette lighters.

Thirty-five other manufacturers have applied to the OPA for ceiling prices on their products.

Army Engineers List Postwar Jobs

Pittsburgh, May 29 (AP)—The Pittsburgh district office of the Army Engineers has on tap flood control projects totaling about $37,500,000 for the post-war period, when its wartime job of constructing ordnance plants, hospitals and depots will end.

A new lock and dam 57 miles down the Ohio river at New Cumberland, W. Va., will cost $15,000,000.

Another major project will be construction of a dam and reservoir on the Conemaugh river below Johnstown, requiring relocation of the Conemaugh division of the Pennsylvania railroad. About $7,000,000 will be spent for the reservoir, while the railroad relocation will cost about $13,000,000.

Churchmen Protest Ban On Conventions

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—The executive council of the Pennsylvania council of churches sent a telegram of protest yesterday to the office of defense transportation against lifting the ban on horse-racing while continuing it on conventions of more than 50 persons.

The telegram said that meetings of religious groups should be given the right-of-way over other gatherings.

Dr. William L. Mudge, executive secretary reported the membership represented by the council of churches has increased to 2,100,000 persons in 24 denominations.

Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—Dr. George Dinsmore Stoddard, 47-year-old New York education commissioner, president-elect of the University of Illinois, is "pleased with the opportunity to head a great university." BILL TO FREE BRIDGES SIGNED
Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—Legislation to free Pennsylvania's last 10 toll bridges was signed today by Governor Martin and predictions of quick action were immediately made.

Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland) co-sponsor of the bills passed by the general assembly said that freeing of the toll bridges "should be but a few months away now."

The bills authorize the Secretary of the highways department to purchase the structures individually and appropriate $7,000,000 of motor funds for the purpose. He could initiate condemnation proceedings in event of disagreement over price.

Bridges involved are two each at Harrisburg and Bethlehem and one each at Sunbury, Clarks Ferry, Alentown, Point Marion, Charleroi-Monessen and Ellwood City-Koppel.

John U. Shroyer, Secretary of highways, who obtained prices totaling $8,593,000 for the bridges a year ago, said when the legislation was approved by the assembly that he would reopen negotiations with the owners immediately after the legislation became effective. The previous prices were rejected as too high.

The legislation represents the third effort by the commonwealth to free the bridges.

MORE MEN TO BE WITHOUT JOBS

Washington, May 29 (AP)—War demands will turn loose 4,800,000 workers and fighters in the next six months but fewer persons will be seeking jobs than three months from now.

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug made these predictions today, estimating the decline in the number of war workers during June, July and August at 2,900,000.

Joblessness during that time, he said, will jump about 1,100,000 persons to around 1,900,000.

Krug said about 700,000 of those to be released from war production in the next three months will continue or soon find employment in plants shifting to civilian production.

Others, he added, will be absorbed in civilian-manufacturing, construction trades and services, and other civilian occupations. Nevertheless, he figures there will be a net increase of 1,100,000 in unemployment.

"Six months from now," Krug continued in his monthly report on munitions production, "the picture will have changed more sharply. The number of persons no longer required for war activities will have increased to 4,800,000."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FSA Directors Study Farm Loan Program

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—Eight state directors of the Farm Security Administration were meeting here today to discuss details of a $25,000,000 federal farm loan program for veterans.

The loans are a special extension of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act and are to be made only to veterans with satisfactory farm training and experience who cannot secure the type of credit required through any other course, Regional Director J. H. Wood said.

Applications will be accepted at the 110 local Farm Security offices in the 11-state area from Maine to Maryland beginning July 1.

ICHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

Steamboat!

Shades of Mark Twain, Tom Sawyer, and Huck Finn! Is that the "Robert E. Lee" comin' round the bend? No, dear reader, it is twelve thousand tons of mixed war cargo handled by a tow of eight or ten barges. Such a tow, incidentally, is twenty-four times as great a load as the famous "Robert E. Lee" could have carried when she chugged along in her heyday, in the glamorous old days of river steamboats and showboats.

We stood on the docks at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, where one of Schenley's principal distilleries is located—on the Ohio. The Ohio, an important inland waterway, is a prime factor in speeding the flow of essential war alcohol to the synthetic rubber and explosive plants. And other important distilleries situated principally in sections of Kentucky, Indiana, and Pennsylvania are close to the waterways which are making history again. Great fleets of modern riverboats are smashing bottlenecks in vital wartime transportation.

There they go, these steamboats, downstream over the busy liquid highways, carrying, besides, coal, coke, finished steel, grain, flour, machinery—from Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Minneapolis. From Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, and Indiana come minelayers, destroyer escorts, patrol vessels, landing craft, hard-hitting PT boats. Down the Ohio and Illinois rivers they go into the Father of Waters and out to sea and action. The Ohio, Illinois, Monongahela, Allegheny, Kanawha, and Tennessee rivers reach into areas rich in natural resources. Industrial centers such as Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago, Louisville, Minneapolis, St. Louis, and New Orleans are all linked by these precious waterways which have taken much of the transportation load from the ever-whirling and overburdened wheels of our railroads and trucks.

What a thrill to this landlubber who stood and watched the river activity at its all-time high! We were thinking of VICTORY, while we hummed that beloved, "...the jes kepmed 'rill" along."

"DONG ALL RIGHT"
"I'm doing all right!" the soldier said,
for days on rations in tins was fed,
And kept on the earth when he went to bed.

"I'm doing all right!" the soldier called
From his mud-floored tent where the insects crawled,
And water to drink in a tank was hauled.

"I'm doing all right!" the soldier told,
Through the days are hot and the nights are cold
And the stuff I'm wearing is green with mold."

"I'm doing all right!" said the soldier lad,
Though it's full two weeks since a bath I've had!
But don't tell mother and don't tell Dad!"

Today's Talk

BEAUTY AND TRANQUILITY

I was amused by the statement of a famous columnist recently when he told a friend of his that "beauty and tranquility and quiet rumination have no market nowadays." He meant this as applied to a newspaper feature. He advised this friend to give such material the "brushoff!"

Well, I do not agree with that columnist. For over a quarter of a century this columnist has been writing—imperfectly, it is true—but writing just that sort of material, and if the many thousands of letters that keep coming to his desk are any evidence that people have an undying urge to read of "beauty and tranquility and quiet rumination," then that other columnist was simply wrong. These Talks circulate to over ten million readers; And have for twenty-five years.

There are many newspaper editors, I know, who have never been converted to this enlightening fact, but this disproves nothing. The delightful essays of David Grayson (Pete Stannard Baker) have "beauty and tranquility and quiet rumination" to them—and people have bought his books along this line to the tune of over a million copies! How many writers of the other sort can mark up a like record?

We live in a restless and confused age. People are in a hurry to get somewhere—often not knowing just where. They talk in a hurry, and they take all too little time to think, to meditate and to pray. In this war-torn world, if only enough of "beauty and tranquility and quiet rumination" could be provided, it would lift humanity to a new high in hope and happiness.

As a matter of honest fact, this old world is starved for a wholesome application of these three things, "beauty and tranquility, and quiet rumination," but it makes little effort to gain nourishment from them, and there are all too few writers of them in the marketplace! These three essentials still remain undervalued, and always will be.

The Bible teaches these things, and remains the world's biggest and best "continuous" "best seller." There must be something tremendously important to such simple, wholesome essentials. For one thing, they give one a happy, healthy soul!

Out Of The Past
From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Our Battlefield: The last week was an eventful one in the history of the field. It witnessed the execution of an article of agreement by the Battlefield Memorial Association for the transfer to the United States of all its property and rights, under the provisions of the late Act of Congress, known as the National Park Act. The association has existed since 1864, and since 1879 has been actively engaged in the labor of buying lands for, and laying out, avenues along the Union lines of battle, and in superintending the erection of the numerous monuments that dot the field. All this was done by means of funds contributed for the purpose by those states which had troops in the battle. For the last two years the expense of the maintenance and repair of the roads and property was furnished by the State of Pennsylvania—$5,000.

The work of the association having been substantially completed and its funds exhausted, the United States has agreed to Maintain Forever the avenues and monuments here erected, and to improve and extend the work, so that the field may indicate, by monuments, the important tactical movements of both sides during the progress of the battle, and thus become the best-marked battlefield in the world.

The Seminary Dedication: Wednesday was a gala day for the Lutherans of Gettysburg, the State and Maryland and of the General Synod. They witnessed the dedication of the new seminary building which has been in course of construction for a year and a half.

The exercises occurred in the grove west of the old building, where a temporary platform and seats were erected. The Rev. Dr. W. M. Baum, president of the Board of Directors, presided and offered the invocation.

Several hymns were sung by the choir consisting of Messrs. Knobel, Bowers, Bickle, W. Nicholas, Diefenderfer, J. Nicholas, Mottern and Kemp. Mr. Bach was the organist.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Schwartz, of Worthington, and the address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Dunbar, of Baltimore.

Dr. Valentine, chairman of the Building Committee, made a report of the money collected and the expenses incurred. The Rev. Dr. G. W. Enders, of York, undertook the task of urging those present to contribute liberally. Between six and seven thousand dollars were secured from this appeal.

The dedicatory services were performed in the chapel by the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Albert, of Philadelphia, president of the General Synod. The benediction was pronounced by the venerable Dr. J. G. Morris, of Baltimore, now in his ninety-second year.

High School Commencement: The exercises of the graduating class of the high school were held on Tuesday afternoon in the presence of three hundred people. Owing to the illness of the Rev. O. G. Klinger, the principal made a few remarks to the graduating class. The prize for best scholarship was awarded to Miss Nora G. Baker. Music was furnished by the Gettysburg orchestra. The following is the program: Prayer, Rev. Hugh W. Gilchrist; music, school; essay, "Joan of Arc," Miss Carrie C. Fleming; essay, "Honor to Whom Honor Is Due," Miss Blanche M. Troxell; essay, "The Cradle of English Liberty," Miss Mary M. Strickhouser; essay, "Prison Reform," Miss Nora J. Baker; essay, "Home Ties," Miss Gertrude Frey; "Esse Quam Videri," Carrie H. Tipton; essay and Valedictory, "Smith and the Virginia Colony," Miss Mary W. Ogden.

Marriages: Wheeler—Wilson.—May 29, in this place, by Rev. Lloyd F. A. Watts. George T. Wheeler to Miss Mary C. Wilson, both of this place.

Yingling—Klunk—May 23, in Conewago Chapel by Rev. Father T. O'Leary, Wm. H. Yingling to Miss Mary A. Klunk, both of Mountpleasant township.

Dillman—Smith.—May 26, in this place by Rev. H. S. Christ, Wm. H. Dillman, of Butte township, to Miss Cora Smith, of Cumberland township.

Hartlaub—Yingling.—May 23, at Conewago Chapel, by Rev. T. O'Leary, Charles E. Hartlaub, of McSherrytown, to Miss Martha R. Yingling, of Mountpleasant township.

Local Miscellany: The pupils of Miss Laura Keller gave an enjoyable piano recital in the Crawford building on Friday evening. Those taking part were Misses Daisy Diehl, Amy Keith, Ethel Wolf, Ione Warner, Ida Wisotzky, May Belle Diehl, Elsie Croll and Master Grove Bream.

The Pennsylvania State Medical society in session at Chambersburg had an excursion to Gettysburg on Friday.

FRENCH-ARAB MAY IMPERIL PEACE SETUP

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign News Analyst)

It is a tragic circumstance—that all the trappings of a cynic's holiday—that, while the United Nations labor in San Francisco to create a world peace-structure, a bloody clash at arms should be going on among countries represented at the Conference.

The fighting in Syria between French troops and natives is at best a nasty affair, and it could develop into an upheaval involving many countries if it were allowed to run its course. The United States and England are using their best offices to try to halt it.

What's happened in Syria is this: When Syria and its little neighbor, Lebanon, were taken from Turkey at the end of the last war, they were placed under French mandate. However, the peoples of both these Middle Eastern countries have through the centuries been fiercely independent and they continued to press for their liberty until France finally promised it.

France Broke Promise

The Hitlerian war intervened, but June 1, 1944, finally was set as the date when Syria and Lebanon should receive full sovereignty. Britain guaranteed their independence. However, France continued to maintain troops there and has been negotiating for special privileges.

Recently France moved in more troops, saying this was for the purpose of establishing bases for the movement of forces to the Pacific for the war against Japan.

Then the trouble started, for the Lebanese and Syrians charged that their liberty was being hamstrung. They demanded the withdrawal of all French troops. The French didn't comply and fighting has broken out in Syria.

Religious Ties

Here enters another element—the newly created union of Arab states. This comprises Egypt, Iraq, Transjordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon and the Yemen. The union estimates that this affects a population of some 80,000,000 Arabs. That sounds like a pretty big figure, but anyway a lot of folk are involved. Of course not all the Arab peoples are members of the union, but there's not only a racial bond of sympathy but a strong religious tie, for the vast majority of them are Moslems.

One of the things which the union opposes is western domination—and its members now come within the "sphere of influence" of England or France. The general secretary of the union is the Egyptian minister of Arab affairs, Abdel Rahman Azzam Bey, a tough fighter who wants complete independence for Arabs, not only in the Middle East but clear across Africa to the Atlantic.

Many Complications

Well, now, the union of Arab states is giving its moral support to Syria and Lebanon. At this juncture moral support is about all they have to offer, since they lack substantial means to employ force. However, their unified opposition is in itself a serious thing and it obviously could grow into something much more grave. Moreover, the Arabs are likely to get the sympathy of other Moslem states even though the latter are not Arabic. Indeed, Indian Moslems already are voicing their sympathy.

One of the worst aspects of this situation is its threat to friendly relations between England and France. This threat exists partly because Britain has guaranteed the independence of Syria and Lebanon, and thus is on a most uncomfortable spot, and partly because the Syrian clash may become a bone of contention in Palestine. England already has her hands full with the difficulties between the Jews and the Arabs over the question of the national home for Jews.

Brief Notes On Dahlia Planting

Late May or the first few days of June, after the soil is warm, is recommended as the best time to plant dahlias. Cold, wet soil that does not permit careful preparation is one of the recognized causes of dahlia failure.

Dahlias require a deeply mellow loam that contains an abundance of moisture-holding organic matter to a depth of at least 12 to 14 inches or more. Shallow, hard types of soil are shunned by experienced growers. If manure is used to increase the soil's humus content, it should be thoroughly decomposed and finely pulverized and worked into the lower stratum of soil uniformly so newly planted tubers do not come into contact with insoluble lumps of manure.

It is wise to avoid fresh stable manures in all cases, also fertilizers which contain an excessive percentage of nitrogen, as both stimulate too much foliage growth at the ultimate expense of bloom quality. Perhaps a fertilizer mixture near a 4-12-4 strength is close to the most beneficial strength, worked into the top soil a few days before planting time at the rate of two to three pounds to 100 square feet of space.

Beginners hear emphasis placed on the importance of turning dahlia tuber eyes upward when planting but are often unable to determine where the eyes are located. This trouble can be eliminated by placing the tubers in a moderately warm room for a day or two before planting or until the eyes develop sufficiently.

Leafhoppers arrive early and may prove the most troublesome pests attacking dahlias. They feed mainly on the under sides of the leaves and are so difficult to detect that they may be present several days before they are discovered. They may carry the disease known as hopperburn. When the first "hoppers" appear, spray them at once with nicotine sulphate at the rate of 1½ teaspoonfuls to a gallon of water in which two level tablespoonfuls of soap flakes have been dissolved.

If mildew is seen on the leaves as a grayish coating, dust the plants with superfine dusting sulphur weekly.

Dahlia stalk borers are difficult to control. In cases of heavy infestations it is wise to pull and burn infested plants. Or the pests may be killed by injecting a few drops of carbon disulphide into the burrow opening and sealing it with chewing gum, putty or wet clay. If detected early, borers may be killed by inserting a fine wire into the burrow.

Growers who have unsolved dahlia problems left over from previous years are invited to write the editor for needed advice.

HUGE SEWAGE PLANT PROGRAM

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—The cost of sewage plant construction by municipalities under the state's waterway cleanup campaign "could easily amount to $19,000,000 or more," the Department of Internal Affairs reported today.

The statement was contained in a survey made in response to inquiries as to methods of financing disposal facilities in the pastwar period.

The state sanitary water board has directed more than 400 municipalities to submit plans for sewage treatment. A new law recently enacted permits establishment of municipal authority agencies on a self-supporting basis to handle the job.

The internal affairs department said "the most obvious method" of financing such projects is issuance of general obligation bonds. Where the net debt exceeds two per cent of taxable valuation, issuance of such bonds requires approval of the electorate.

Another method is to issue non-debt revenue bonds, a charge being imposed upon property owners in the nature of sewer rentals. Accumulated surpluses also may be utilized to construct plants, the department pointed out, adding "amounts set aside in capital reserve funds will undoubtedly in many cases be used for this purpose."

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Rep. Corbett, (R-Pa.), has introduced legislation authorizing loans or outright gifts of surplus military equipment to Boy Scouts and similar groups.

MUCH WORK TO BE DONE AFTER FRISCO PARLEY

By JAMES MARLOW

San Francisco, May 29 (AP)—When all the shouting is over here and a new world organization is chartered, then what?

Actually, when the delegates to the United Nations conference leave they will not have formed an international league.

They simply are laying down the rules and regulations for a league then they'll go home.

The world organization itself won't come into existence until a sufficient number of nations has given approval.

Just Agreeing on Charter

Our own government is an example. We can't join the league until the senate debates the work done here and finally okays our joining it.

That takes time. Take the old League of Nations as an example. Checking back, the United Nations information office found that the old league did not come into existence until Jan. 10, 1920, or 258 days after the big Allied powers had agreed on a charter.

The only work being done here is reaching agreement on a charter.

Because the early problems of the old league show what some of the problems of the new league will be, here's an explanation of what happened before.

Must Find Home

First, the old league charter made no provisions for financing any staff work until the league was in existence.

But the staff—they call it a secretariat—was pulled together and made its headquarters in London. The British and French governments financed it.

There was the question of choosing a permanent home for the league. Various European cities were considered but Geneva in Switzerland finally was chosen. The league buildings there cost about 15 million dollars.

But it's pretty certain the new league won't go back there. So an interim committee will have to nose around to find a spot.

6 OUT OF 7 WOMEN ARE CHEATING ON RED POINTS

Among housewives recently interviewed, 6 out of 7 were cheating themselves—passing up extra red points because they did not save all their used fats.

These women were saving only the easy amounts from frying bacon or broiling. They were throwing away the little bits—the meat trimmings and table scraps. Yet those small amounts, saved and melted down, can fill fat salvage cans in no time at all! Have you been cheating yourself? Then start saving every scrap today! Our country needs fats urgently to help make battlefield and home-front essentials.

THE ROAD AHEAD is Brighter...
... let's keep using travel wisely

America has rounded one great bend in the highway of war, and there is one more corner to turn—but, even now, the Road Ahead* is bright with hope and promise.

In this final stretch before V-J Day, Greyhound is exerting every effort to provide better, smoother transportation for men and women in uniform, for fighters now being released after long service—and for the millions of Americans intent on finishing the war job.

There'll be a progressive "stepping up" of motor bus service—in frequency of schedules, in comfort and in speed, as rapidly as war restrictions can be lifted.

In the meantime let's all keep using travel intelligently... planning trips for mid-week days... avoiding weekends and crowded holiday periods. Travel light—and invest heavily in War Bonds!

* Greyhound is participating as host in the popular Army-Navy-Red Cross Radio Program, "The Road Ahead," which is planned to help in the rehabilitation of America's war wounded. And Greyhound is already re-employing many of the 6,120 people who left their jobs with this nationwide bus system to fight for Uncle Sam.

SEES CHANGES IN MARKETING FARM PRODUCE

Postwar years will bring big changes in the marketing of farm products, with increased emphasis on cooperative marketing, and added attention to uniform quality, a Pennsylvania State college specialist said today.

Dr. Kenneth Hood, extension agricultural economist, expressed the conviction that most wholesale buyers of the future will be looking "for a continuous supply in large volume of products of uniform quality"—a demand which the individual farmer with his small volume will be in no position to meet.

It will be only through "cooperative assembling, grading, and packaging of the output of a large number of producers that the market demands of large buyers can be met," Dr. Hood asserted.

He gave as examples of this method the operation in Pennsylvania of cooperative wool pools, poultry egg auctions, the mushroom grower markets, and the potato marketing cooperatives.

Expansion of cooperative marketing of farm commodities "all the way to the consumer" may be the solution to the problem of efficient distribution, according to the Penn State expert, who believes cooperatives can help coordinate production with reference to volume, kind, quality, and variety of product.

Pressure Cooker Is Best For Processing Non-Acid Vegetables

Processing asparagus, peas, corn, beans, and other nonacid vegetables in a pressure cooker is one precaution Adams county home-makers can take to prevent spoilage in canned foods, says Miss Mildred L. Adams, Adams county home economics extension representative.

With a pressure cooker the high temperature that destroys bacteria readily can be obtained. It's not possible to obtain such high temperatures in a boiling water bath, steamer, or in the oven. Also processing times are shorter in the pressure cooker than when jars are processed by other methods.

This year pressure cookers are not rationed and a larger number are being manufactured. Reports are that your chance for getting a pressure cooker looks good. Any make of cooker will be satisfactory if directions are followed carefully. Be sure to clean the petcock and safety valve frequently and have the gauge on the cooker checked each year.

Some Adams county homemakers say they have been able to can non-acid vegetables successfully by processing the jars in a boiling water bath. If the vegetables are young and fresh, if only 6 to 8 jars are filled and processed at one time, if vegetables are precooked before packing, if water covers the jars by at least one inch and is kept boiling throughout the entire processing time.

When nonacid vegetables are processed in the boiling water bath, they must be boiled 10 minutes before tasting.

Income Of Dairy Farmers At Peak

New York, May 29 (AP)—Dr. C. J. Blanford, administrator of the New York Metropolitan milk marketing area, predicted today that May milk sales of dairy farmers would total $24,273,600—largest monthly income in the history of the six-state milkshed.

The estimated return was approximately $485,000 greater than the previous record, established in June, 1944, and was based primarily on predictions that 50,300 producers are expected to deliver 694,000,000 pounds of milk by the end of the month.

The uniform price will figure out at $3.09 a hundredweight, Blanford said, with war food administration payments bringing the total to $3.44. The WFA payments account for $2,429,000 of the total income.

PA. PRODUCING PEAK BEEF CROP

More and more beef cattle are being raised by Pennsylvania farmers, reports C. A. Burge, extension livestock specialist at the Pennsylvania State college. The state now has more purebred beef herds, more feeder calves being fattened for market, and more beef in production than at any previous time, he reveals.

The specialist says there is no particular size of farm best suited for beef production, but admits that small farms usually lack sufficient pasture land to provide enough of this kind of feed. Beef cattle can be profitably produced on good or on poorer land, but good land will carry more cattle per acre.

Burge attributes the trend toward more beef cattle to several factors. One of these, he says, is the many former boys and girls who had baby beef projects in 4-H clubs that are now operating their own farms, translating into practice the education they obtained in the beef projects. Another factor, he says, is the extra attention given in recent years to quality pastures. Now that the pastures are well established, new uses are being found from them, he points out.

Although he indicates that Pennsylvania will never be able to compete with western areas in beef production, Burge says farmers of this state have an advantage in being close to market. At the same time,

Clipping Improves Pastures—Clipping pastures knocks off the weeds and prevents the grass from going to seed. This procedure gives the cows continuous fresh, green, and attractive grazing, and that as a result they keep in better condition at less cost and give more milk.

Keep After Apple Scab—Even though apple prospects for 1945 may be poor because of frost damage, control of apple scab by use of lime sulphur sprays if necessary to insure strong trees, and good crops, in 1946.

Select Smut-Free Barley—Since smut on winter barley can be easily noticed now, this is a good time to look over the fields to select areas with the least smut for next year's seed supply.

Pulpwood Is Needed—Pulpwood continues to be a critically needed war material. Extension foresters of the Pennsylvania State college urge woodland owners to fell and peel as many trees as possible. Cutting to length can be done later when the best time for peeling has passed. Skidding, piling and loading also can wait.

Care for Tomato Plants—Urging growers to give tomato plants a good start, vegetable extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State college say that these plants need special handling and care at the time of transplanting. Strong, healthy plants are best and they our farmers are assuming a prominent role in attempting to meet the demands of the food and meat shortages of the nation.

Control Pea Aphids—If aphids become numerous on commercial plantings, any spraying or dusting needed for control must be done before pods are set on the plants. Constant watch must be kept on the field to check the infestation before damage is done.

Fruit Insect Dangerous—Since the freeze has reduced the size of the apple crop, control of codling moths is more important than usual. A hundred moths on 50 apples is worse than 50 moths on 50 apples. Penn State extension entomologists point out.

Grow Calves Well—Proper feeding and management of heifer calves will help to bring out the good production abilities that inheritance from well-bred stock gives them, say dairy extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State college.

Make Good Quality Hay—Start the hay-making early and avoid overdrying in the field to help insure palatable forage for the cows, advises J. B. R. Dickey, extension agronomist of the Pennsylvania State college. The first essential in any livestock system, he asserts, is an abundant supply of good hay.

Nutrients in hay cost only about half as much as in grain.

Pigs Need Ample Feed—Pigs eight to nine weeks old that are of good size are ready to be weaned, but they first should be on full feed. Growing pigs should be kept on pasture and have access to a growing ration containing 16 to 18 per cent protein.

Weeds Rob Corn Crop—Weeds growing in corn can reduce the yield by 80 per cent, explains R. R. Copper, extension agronomist at the Pennsylvania State college, who recommends frequent cultivations, the first of which can be done with a spike-tooth harrow.

Cultivate Raspberries—Cultivation should be frequent and thorough in the raspberry patch to keep down the weeds. Weeds compete with berries for plant food and water.

Make Cows Comfortable—Ample shade and fresh water for cows on pasture are urged by R. H. Olmstead, extension dairy specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. If cows are comfortable, he says they will give more milk.

WILL PROMOTE FREE SPEECH AT FRISCO PARLEY

San Francisco, May 29 (AP)—The United States is planning new moves to promote world-wide news freedom, basing them on a general free speech declaration slated for adoption by the United Nations conference.

Freedom of speech is one of the four freedoms from the Atlantic charter which is being written into the charter of a world organization. Its meaning was interpreted by Secretary of State Stettinius in his written report to the nation last night on the work of the conference, although in delivery the passage was omitted to save time.

"Freedom of speech," the secretary said, "encompasses freedom of the press, freedom of information and freedom of communications."

HIT TWO SNAGS

Originally, Stettinius planned to seek a detailed agreement among the United Nations on principles of news freedom. His advisers had some thought that he might use the Pan-American resolution adopted at Mexico City in March as a basis for calling for a prompt end throughout the globe to a wartime censorship, and pledging the American governments "to promote a free exchange of information among their peoples."

Plans to have an equally detailed statement adopted here hit two snags: (1) The United States delegation decided the charter should be limited to general statements of principle rather than to exact guarantees of specific rights, in order to get maximum agreement on the subject quickly; (2) the delegation and its advisers also doubted whether Russia would accept at this time any other than vague generalizations on the exchange of news.

HOPES FOR COMMISSION

Stettinius set forth his personal views earlier this month in a public letter to a group of editors and writers. He said he hoped the conference would, as slated, order creation of a commission on human rights to carry forward the work of expanding and winning adherence to the basic principles provided in the charter.

"You may rest assured," he wrote, "that when such a commission is established, I would earnestly urge, on behalf of the United States government, that it should examine means of promoting freedom of communications, freedom of travel and freedom of access to sources of knowledge and of information."

Long before such a commission could be set up and produce any concrete statements, however, the United States may undertake in special agreements with other governments to clear the channels of information among nations. In such agreements, the United States would seek the same freedom of operations for American reporters abroad that foreign newsmen enjoy in this country.

The Mexico City declaration, branding truth as "the enemy of tyranny," set forth these objectives of news freedom in this hemisphere:

1. That the American nations "recognize their essential obligation to guarantee to their people, free and impartial access to sources of information."
2. That they put an end to censorship as quickly as possible.
3. That they cooperate "to promote a free exchange of information among their peoples."
4. That when a rule of law prevails throughout the world, the Americas seek establishment of "the principle of free transmission and reception of information, oral or written, published in books or by the press, broadcast by radio or disseminated by any other means under proper responsibility and without need of previous censorship, as is the case with private correspondence by letter, telegram or any other means in time of peace."

TEST OF TRUMAN
INFLUENCE SEEN

Washington, May 29 (AP)—President Truman's championship of emergency payments up to $25 a week for displaced war workers today offered a major test of his influence in Congress.

Advocates of federal standards for unemployment compensation applauded his course but saw little prospect for the immediate action Mr. Truman called for yesterday.

A Republican-southern Democrat coalition steam rolled all efforts to pass a federal jobless payment proposal in the last Congress.

In his message yesterday, Mr. Truman proposed that Congress:

1. Approve immediate expansion of unemployment compensation coverage under federal financing, to federal employees in navy yards, arsenals and offices, to maritime workers and to employees of small concerns.
2. Provide, through supplementary emergency benefit payments, minimum standards under which any eligible worker could draw jobless compensation for 26 weeks in any one year, at a maximum rate for those with dependents of "not less than $25 a week."
3. Re-examine the GI Bill with a view to raising benefit payments available to jobless veterans.

Asks Discharge
Of All Men Over 35

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Chairman May, (D-Ky.), of the House Military committee called today for prompt discharge of all soldiers over 35, except for key personnel.

"Now that our principal enemy has surrendered unconditionally, there should be a more drastic reduction in the armed forces than the army has yet made," May declared in an interview.

The army last month announced plans to discharge enlisted men over 42 and followed that action May 21 by lowering the age to 40. It said at that time a further age limit reduction was in prospect but that it could not be put into effect immediately without jeopardizing current operations or slowing the release of combat veterans under the newly installed point system.

LORD HAW HAW,
BRITISH TRAITOR,
NOW A PRISONER

With the British Second Army, May 29 (AP)—Scar-faced Lord Haw Haw, British renegade who mouthed German propaganda throughout the war, has been captured with his wife by the British Second Army.

An authoritative source said there was a strong probability he would have to stand trial for treason in the country he tried vainly to undermine.

Lord Haw Haw is William Joyce, 39, a native of New York, where he was born of Irish parents. An early British Fascist, his face was slashed by a razor 20 years ago during a fight with British Communists.

Efforts Backfired

Joyce was a tool of the Goebbels propaganda ministry. His polished voice and precise English accent were attained at London university, where he was graduated with honors in 1927.

Throughout the war, he wheeled the British and American radio audiences with accounts of German air blows at London and other British cities, and over every achievement of German arms. Even while he was boasting of the blitz, German bombers destroyed the London home of Lord Haw Haw's father, Michael Joyce, who died in February of 1941.

Haw Haw, far from undermining British morale, however, steered the British and provided them with one of their few grim entertainments during the dark days of the war.

At one time, his sarcasm and "Views on the News," frequently dealing with British internal problems, were broadcast over a wide German network.

Troops of Lt. Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's British Second Army captured the short, chunky broadcaster.

Anderson Plans
Bigger Meat Supply

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The man who will become the nation's food boss plans to make more meat available to average Americans through increased production and better distribution.

Under the present distribution system a civilian must eat in restaurants part of the time "if he expects to get his share." Representative Anderson (D-NM) said last night in a Blue network interview.

This, he said, "tends to make it a rich man's war, which many of us do not like." Anderson, who will become secretary of agriculture and war food administrator July 1, said he planned to change this by:

"Abundant production, which is the greatest weapon in the war against black market operations; secondly, a better channeling of what meat we have so that more of it goes to the grocery store where you and I can buy it."

STATE TEACHERS
GIVEN HIGHEST
SALARIES IN U.S.

Harrisburg, May 29 (AP)—Governor Martin invited education leaders to witness the signing today of the Hare-Lee-Sollenberger bill giving Pennsylvania the nation's highest salaries fixed by law for school teachers.

The measure, representing a compromise between the House and Senate where it received impressive votes, hikes teacher pay permanently and boosts state aid to public schools. Approximately 50,000 of the Commonwealth's 61,000 teachers get increases.

Governor Martin recommended state school assistance of $103,000,000 in his 1945-47 budget and the new program adds an additional $29,000,000. A $36,000,000 increase is provided for 1947-49. Legislators agree new financing will be required by the next assembly.

Required Salaries

The program fixes a minimum of $1,400 on teacher salaries with annual raises and establishes a new system for distributing the increased state subsidies designed to equalize educational opportunities in all school districts and reduce local taxes.

The plan sets up a teacher unit of 22 high school students and 30 elementary pupils as a basis for state aid with a maximum of $1,800 for each of the next two years and $2,000 thereafter per teacher unit. Assessed valuation of real estate for county purposes forms the basis to determine ability of a district to support schools.

The new line up on mandated teacher salaries:

First class district—Elementary teachers to start at $1,400 with 12 increments of $100; junior high, $1,800 minimum with 10 increments of $120; senior high, $2,000 minimum and eight increments of $175.

Second class districts—Elementary, $1,400 minimum with nine increments of $100; high school, $1,600 with nine increments of $100.

Third and fourth class districts—Elementary and high school, $1,400 minimum with seven increments of $100.

(Gettysburg is a third class district. All other schools in the county are in a fourth class district.)

Forward with the MIGHTY 7th WAR LOAN

You! Everybody! THIS TIME BUY BIGGER BONDS... AND MORE OF THEM

THIS IS THE TIME FOR AMERICA TO REALLY POUR OUT HER MIGHT—in War Bonds.

Every single man and woman on the far-flung battle fronts is being asked to fight harder and bolder, even at the sacrifice of life. You are being asked to lend, not give, more and more of your money, even at the sacrifice of a few comforts of life.

Is this too much to ask of any person who says "I am an American"? Hardly.

Remember, by this time last year you were twice called upon to buy extra War Bonds. This is the first time your country has called upon you in 1945. That's why this is really two great war loans in one. And to put the 7th over the top with a mighty bang, you—yes, everybody—must buy BIGGER BONDS—and more of them!

Remember, you are part of America—a part of America's might! Pour out your might in the mighty 7th War Loan... for yourself... for your country... for Victory!

Don't forget the more War Bonds you accumulate—the happier and more secure will be your post-war days. In helping your country, you are also helping yourself!

Chapter 11
Rex stirred a little restlessly and looked toward the elevator. Suddenly he realized that this vague impatience for Kay to make her appearance was not new. He recalled his feeling of restlessness several times lately when she'd been a few minutes late for meals. But when she was across the table from him, that feeling would fade away and everything would be all right.

He tried to concentrate on today's news. He'd be a fool to fall in love with Kay Lambert, or with any other girl. At the thought, his eyes became grim. There had been a girl a long time ago, but she'd found the world a much more amusing place without him. She'd gone away. Afterwards, his arms and his heart were incredibly empty and his mind a tortured blank of loneliness.

He rose, walked to the window and stared out. He'd miss this place, and he'd miss Kay. He wouldn't see her often. How could he? With her wealth, her bright security, her youth? Why, he was almost grown when she was in his cradle with her silver spoon in her pretty mouth.

Suddenly he saw her coming down the street. She had been to see Tommy for the last time. She was holding her fur coat close about her against the chill of the autumn wind.

"I'm sorry to be late," she said, smiling up at him, her cheeks glowing from the cold, her eyes shining. "I just had to see Tommy again."

He felt his heart quicken as he looked into her face. There was that lovely quality of spirit he'd recognized in the portrait of her mother in the entrance hall of the hospital in Lowell.

They went toward the car, and as they stood and looked at the Foundation buildings on this last morning, she turned to him. "I'd like to tell you something—about yesterday morning," she said. Her voice was hurried, as she added, "About how I felt after we knew the operation was successful."

"I was with Tommy every minute until they administered the anesthetic," Kay was saying now, "and when he was carried into the operating room I went into the gallery."

Rex thought: So she was up there, too, with the doctors, the nurses, and the young students from several medical colleges. Perhaps I knew she was there all the time.

"I was badly frightened at first, and I was trembling," she confessed. "I could hardly keep from crying. You see, Tommy looked so little, so defenseless, and they kept handing you so many instruments."

He nodded. "I understand."

"Then I saw the delicacy of your touch, the sureness of your hands, and the calm determination of your face. And it made me calm, too," she told him, in that same breathless, eager voice. "And I saw the look of pride and triumph on the doctors' faces. Then I saw Dr. Cabot leave the room, after he was sure you'd won!"

He smiled down at her. "Thank you, Kay."

"Then I went out, too," she added. "I walked around to the front of the Hall, I—I shall never forget that moment, knowing that everything was all right, the sunshine and the blue skies, and the wind blowing the leaves against the white walls of Georgia Hall—and across the street Dr. Cabot going into the chapel."

"I understand, Kay."

But what he understood was more than her words. He knew now that what they had called friendship had changed into something infinitely more precious and lasting.

Again they were following the Franklin D. Roosevelt Highway across the plain. After awhile the car was climbing again and they rode along the very ridge of the mountain where on both sides were scrub oaks and pines.

Rex told her, "I know just the place we're going to have lunch. I've been thinking of taking you there ever since I went the first time."

"Oh, I love surprises!"

Rex stopped the car on the very top of the mountain. There was a tavern there built of native stone. In the distance, Kay could see the line of the blue low-lying hills, the plains, and a lake.

"The woman here calls this a tea room," Rex explained. "But we're not going to have tea. We're having a big steak."

She laughed, and said with surprise, "I believe I am hungry."

"I'll say you're hungry. Or you'd better be. This is a celebration—for the last three weeks!"

They entered a long rustic room. There was a huge fireplace at one end where a wood fire was burning.

A heavy woman with white hair bustled in. "Dr. Warner!" she beamed. "I haven't seen you for days."

"Well, I'm back now," he said. "And I've brought Miss Lambert, Mrs. Clinton." Kay thrilled to the note of pride in his voice.

"I'm hungry for one of your famous steaks," Kay told her.

"In just a few minutes," Mrs. Clinton said cheerfully. "Pull your chair up to the fire, it's winter today. Lots of people have been in, but they're gone now."

She hurried away and presently Kay and Rex could detect the delicious odor of coffee and broiling steak.

"Let's go outside," Rex suggested. "It will be warm in the sunshine and I want you to see the view."

So they stood on the top of Pine Mountain and looked miles into the distance over the loveliest scene Kay had ever beheld. They stood in silence for several minutes, and then she looked up into Rex's face. Their eyes met and clung. It was an unexpected moment and it left them both shaken. As they turned away he caught her hand and, raising it, pressed his lips to the palm, then closed it tight and let it go.

They sat opposite each other at a small table, gay with a green yellow dishes. There were hot rolls and potatoes with the tender steak. They drank coffee out of tall thick cups. Then there was a dish of apple pie.

"You have to eat every bite," he told her.
"Oh, I can't," she groaned over the last of her pie.
"Yes, you can," Warner declared relentlessly. "You can afford to put on some weight."

It was, Kay decided, good to feel cared for, protected, told what to eat! It was the happiest meal she'd had for a long time.

Much later she assured him, "It's been wonderful. I'll remember it tomorrow and on the next day and the next."

"Shall we come back—in the spring?"

"It's a date!"

URGES APTITUDE

schooling of bright young people who could not afford advanced education.

Aptitude Tests
Among Dr. Zinn's proposals was an insistence that reading, writing and mathematics plus speaking should be given more emphasis in the schools and that citizenship, an ability to evaluate the press, radio and motion pictures be taught far earlier than they generally are.

Dr. Zinn also advocated continuous application of aptitude and intelligence tests so that the more capable and intelligent students could be selected for advanced training. He recommended that students be divided into two groups on this basis at the end of the second year of high school and again in the second year of college.

The special guests were Leslie Stock, principal of Biglerville high school, William S. Whitley, principal of Arendtville high school, John L. Stock, supervising principal at York Springs high school, Dr. Anson Hamme, of Fairfield high school, and Dale Roth, principal of York Springs high school.

President Walter Africa presided at the meeting. Forty-nine members and guests were present.

American Prisoners say: "WE WANT TO GET BACK AT THE JAPS!"

MATCH THEIR SPIRIT in the MIGHTY 7th WAR LOAN DRIVE

YES, despite their long months and years of privation and suffering, those gallant men, just released from filthy Jap Prison Camps, still have their good old fighting spirit. They're itching to get back into the fight and give the Nips a taste of their own medicine.

Let's show them that we're not quitting either! Let's match their spirit with our dollars! Let's make this MIGHTY 7th War Loan the mightiest of them all!

But to come even close to matching their sacrifices, everyone here at home must buy War Bonds until it hurts. Buy double or treble the extra War Bonds you've bought in any previous drive. Remember, this is really two drives in one. In the same period last year, you were asked to subscribe to two War Loans.

So let's go, Americans. Our hard-fighting Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are giving their ALL. The least we can do is to lend our dollars.

PIRATES, CUBS REDS, CHISOX GET VICTORIES

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Pittsburgh is beginning to live up to its press notices after a miserable spring start and is showing serious intentions toward its first pennant since 1927.

Seven straight victories have re-kindled Forbes field interest that was red-hot late last summer when the Bucs knocked St. Louis around the lot in a wild but futile spurt. However Pittsburgh fans still remember the 1938 folding job and are cautious.

Off-season gossip tabbed the Pirates as the Cards' most serious opposition and many "experts" went overboard on Frankie Frisch's Birds.

But the club almost left at the post, winning only two of its first nine starts against the Reds and Cubs, and floundering under the .500 mark until the eastern teams moved west.

7th In Row

After trimming New York in the second game of a Polo grounds doubleheader May 20, the Pirates returned home and beat the Giants the next night, then took three in a row from Boston and have won two straight from New York in the current series.

It took Frisch two days to win the second tilt from the leaders. Carrying over a 10-5 lead in a "suspended" game of Sunday, the Pirates made it certain, 11-5, when they finished it yesterday. Rain saved the Giants from another possible setback as Pittsburgh led 2-0 at the end of four innings and needed only three more outs to make it legal when the game was postponed.

Brooklyn continued to fade, dropping a 5-3 tilt to Chicago and sinking into fourth place three percentage points behind Pittsburgh and the Cubs, tied for second. Paul Derringer gave the Dodgers a shove down the ladder with an eight-hitter for his sixth victory, decision-hitter Ray Hathaway who was making his first big league start.

Win In 12th

Cincinnati drew only 2,620 paying customers, smallest night crowd of the year in the city that inaugurated after-dark play in the majors 10 years ago, but the Reds pulled one out of the fire, 2-1, over Boston in 12 innings.

The Philadelphia-St. Louis night tilt in the National and the Cleveland-Philadelphia, Detroit-Washington and St. Louis-New York contests in the American were rained out.

Only American league action found Chicago snapping out of a six-game losing streak to blister Boston, 8-6, after Manager Jimmy Dykes called off hitting practice and delivered a clubhouse pre-game oration.

Tony Cuccinello responded with a perfect four for four afternoon, to lead the attack on Red Cecil and three relief men. Bob Johnson delivered a three-run homer, No. six of the campaign, and Dave "Shut-out" Ferriss came through with a pinch single for the losing cause.

BAD WEATHER
(By The Associated Press)

The postponement-plague Eastern league took another beating from the weather last night as every game on the slate was rained out. And scarcely had the final postponement been announced when word came that tonight's Hartford at Wilkes-Barre contest had been called off because of a bond rally.

Racing Opens At Delaware Park

Stanton, Del., May 29 (AP)—Delaware park officially opens its 30-day racing season today with more than 10 of 29 eligible two-year-olds expected to go to the post for the $7,500 added four and a half furlong feature Christiana stakes.

Lovemenow and General Don are probable post time favorites. Blue Dream, Bossiney, Chanticleer, Fair Charge and Marine Victory also are entered. Track officials said other entries before the race would probably bring the field to more than 10.

The Memorial Day card tomorrow will be featured by the six-furlong Wilmington handicap for three-year-olds. The mile and a sixteenth Brandywine handicap for seasoned performers tops Saturday's program.

Thirteen stake races are scheduled for the season which will run until July 4. The only break will be June 10 to 18 when the Preakness will be held at Pimlico.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 29 (AP)—It used to be that the funniest baseball stories were told about happenings in the Three-eye or the Sally league. With those circuits inactive, the Eastern league seems to have become the center for unusual doings.

For instance: A couple of weeks ago Pete Naktens, who combines working in a firearms factory with pitching for Hartford, turned in the first no-hitter of his career and was lucky to get a shutout when he gave seven walks and his teammates made three errors. A few days later Binghamton made only one hit off two Scranton pitchers but won the game 11-4. Seventeen passes, two hit batters and three errors accounted for the scoring.

The very next night Ken Therrien of Hartford took a throw to second; the webbing on his glove broke, the ball rolled into right field and two runners scored to give Elmira the ball game. And last Sunday second baseman Frank Gallardo of Williamsport tried to light the hot water heater in the clubhouse. The thing blew up and Frank will be out of action a couple of weeks.

NOT LETTER PERFECT

Hoss race experts have discovered that "Easy Spell," who figured in that $1,000 daily double at Jamaica recently, actually was Grandpa Max, a stablemate who looks so much like Easy Spell that even their trapper finds it difficult to tell them apart. That may be easy to spell, but it's hard to right.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The story keeps cropping up that the "old guard" Notre Dame alumni are peeved because the Irish let Ed McKeever get away but kept Frank Leahy. One version is that even the kids on the team objected. Navy trainee Allen Clay likely will be the first four-letter man at the U. of Virginia in more than a decade. He has won awards this year in football, basketball and tennis and is the best javelin thrower on the track team. Joe Hauser, the old minor league home run king, is running a sports goods store in Sheboygan, Wis., and making more dough than he ever did in baseball. The Newport News, Va., Piedmont league club doesn't have a player on the squad who bats or throws left-handed. But, being a Dodger farm, it probably has plenty of left-handed thinkers.

ALL GAMES CALLED

Rain again caused postponement of all games in the Interstate league last night. The Wilmington Blue Rocks still hold first place in the league race with 21 games won and six lost. Lancaster is in second place with 18 games won and nine lost.

Mel Ott Near National Record

Pittsburgh, May 29 (AP)—If he doesn't do it in the game here today against the Pittsburgh Pirates, outfielder-manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants will have a good chance in the Memorial Day doubleheader at Chicago to break a National league record.

Mel has hit for only six more bases to surpass the league's total bases hit mark of 4,888 set in 1917 by Honus Wagner. He has nearly 1,000 more bases to bat out before he can surpass the American league title held by Ty Cobb with 5,863.

Part of Ott's standing is due to his ability to annex extra bases on his clouts. He led the National league in home runs for six years between 1932 and 1942.

Churchill Totals Britain's Casualties

London, May 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced today that the British empire armed forces had suffered 1,128,315 casualties during the war, including 307,201 killed.

The reported death toll for the 66 months of the war was only a little more than a third as large as that of the British empire in the 52 months of the First World War.

In reporting to Commons, Churchill said that additional losses were inflicted upon the civilian population of Britain by enemy bombardment. He said civilian casualties totaled 60,585 killed, 86,175 seriously injured and upwards of 150,000 slightly injured.
